

HUSSMANN®

Enabling Excellence in Food Retailing.

PASSION. PERSPECTIVE. PERFORMANCE.

Harry L. Hussmann

Hussmann History

In April 1906, Harry L. Hussmann opened a butcher supply company in St. Louis, Missouri, selling knives, cleavers and meat slicers to shops throughout the Midwest.

In 1917 Hussmann patented the first glass-front refrigerated display case, cooled using salt and ice. Hussmann soon replaced ice blocks with condensing units as the preferred method of refrigeration. This led to a joint project with Clarence Birdseye in 1932 to develop cases for frozen foods.

In 1939, the first self-service meat, dairy and produce cases were installed. These and many other Hussmann pioneering efforts formed the foundation for developing food stores and supermarkets as we know them today.
